Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 10, 12-15 and 17-28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Recitations such as “facing an interior of the vehicle” on lines 3-4 of claim 10 render the claims indefinite because it is unclear if the applicant is claiming the subcombination of a component support assembly or the combination of a component support assembly and a vehicle door. The preamble of claim 10 implies the subcombination while the positive recitation of a vehicle implies the combination. Recitations such as “the vehicle” on lines 3-4 of claim 10 render the claims indefinite because they lack antecedent basis. Recitations such as “a fully retracted door window” on line 13 of claim 10 render the claims indefinite because it is unclear if the applicant is referring to the window set forth above or is attempting to set forth another window in addition to the one set forth above. Recitations such as “,” on line 3 of claim 20 appear to be typographical errors. Recitations such as “an enclose volume” on line 10 of claim 20 and “majority of area” on line 2 of claim 28 render the claims indefinite because they are grammatically awkward and confusing.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 10, 12, 14, 15, 17, 19-21, 23-25, 27 and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 in view of Renner et al. German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 discloses a component support assembly for a vehicle door, comprising a rigid double-shell box structure having a first wall 5a facing an interior of the vehicle and a second wall 3 facing an exterior of the vehicle, the second wall having at least first 31 and second (not numbered, but comprising the indentation for receiving the drive and control device 9) hollows separated by a separating member (not numbered, but seen in the figure as the portion of the first wall separating the first and second hollows), the first wall being connected to said second wall thereby forming an enclosed volume with the first hollow of the second wall and a plurality of vehicle door components 7, 92, 93 fixedly attached to the first wall so as to be located within the enclosed volume and so as to independently supported by the rigid double shell box structure, an outer panel (not shown), an interior lining 6 and a window lifter 1 mounted to the second wall. German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 appears to be silent concerning a curved shape.

However, Renner et al. discloses a vehicle door comprising a window panel 8 having a curved shape which substantially corresponds to a curved shape of an inner panel 1.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 with a curved shape, as taught by Renner et al., to improve the aesthetic appearance of the vehicle.

Claims 13, 18, 22 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 in view of Renner et al. as applied to claims 10, 12, 14, 15, 17, 19-21, 23-25, 27 and 28 above, and further in view of Finch et al. Finch et al. disclose a vehicle door comprising a body of foam 11 for side impact protection.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to provide German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282, as modified above, with a body of foam, as taught by Finch et al., to attenuate the forces generated during side impacts.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed November 18, 2002 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

With respect to the applicant's comments concerning German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 failing to disclose an enclosed volume, the examiner respectfully disagrees. The recitation forming an enclosed volume does not require that the volume be sealed air-tight, as alleged by the applicant's comments. The recitation forming an enclosed volume only requires that the volume be enclosed. Therefore, German Patent Publication No. 195 09 282 clearly discloses an enclosed volume even if it discloses additional openings.

The applicant remaining comments are moot in view of the new grounds of rejection.
